Fred Williams captures
the feeling of the Australian bush
Fred Williams Trees on Hillside II 1964

Fred Williams was a famous painter. Fred Williams was born in 1927 and died in 1982.
I think Fred Williams has not capture the feeling of the Australian bush.

I don't think this is a good painting of the Australian bush because the trees are close to another. The bush is thin of trees and tree in the bush are more eavated.

I don't like how he does his paintings.
