NAME OF FILM: Harry Potter and the Prisoner of Azkaban

In 2004, Harry Potter and the Prisoner of Azkaban hit our screens. The main characters in this movie are Harry Potter (played by Daniel Radcliffe), Hermione Granger (played by the beautiful Emma Watson), and Ron Weasley (played by Rupert Grint). These characters evolved with the skilled help of their director Alfonso Cuarón.

Of course, the main character in the film is Harry Potter (Daniel Radcliffe). He is a perfect candidate for this role because, as you watch the movie, he acts as though he is trying to bring you along for the ride. He really takes his character to heart and performs very well.

Harry soon finds out that a killer is on the loose, Sirius Black. As we go through the movie, we learn that Sirius and Harry have much more in common than they think. Harry sets out to discover the truth about his parents really died.

Harry soon learns that finding out the truth about his parents' death is going to be harder than he thinks. There are evil creatures called dementors hanging around the school to make sure that Sirius Black is not located in the castle. They seem to be attracted to Harry because he has suffered so much in his life.
Grade Commentary

Jody has demonstrated an adequate level of competence in composing a film review. A sound understanding of the process of composition is evident and there is some awareness of the audience’s preconceptions and expectations. The structure is more in the style of a recount with a simplistic personal judgement provided. Little analysis of cinematic techniques or their effects has been provided, and there is an emphasis on plot with no reference to context. A developing personal style with appropriate language usage is apparent but there is little variety in the use of language.

Jody’s response demonstrates characteristics of work typically produced by a student performing at a grade C standard midway through Stage 5.
